is pleased to present

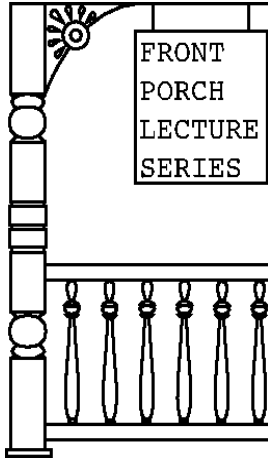

Dissociative Indicators in Children's Human Figure Drawings: Post-Trauma Brain Neurobiology & Projective Processes

a half-day training seminar/workshop with

Mary Sue Moore, Ph.D.

Friday, JUNE 26 2009 -- 9:30AM – 12:30PM
Boulder Baptist Church, NW corner, Pine & 13th Streets

This presentation integrates new data from empirical neuroscience studies of the impact of traumatic experience on normal brain function, with research analyzing the projective drawings of children and adults with a documented trauma history. Particular drawing processes, as well as specific characteristics of human figure drawings (HFD's) and family drawings (KFD's), will be discussed in relation to complex neurobiological processes such as implicit/procedural memory, "traumatic enactments," and dissociative states. Application of these findings to on-going psychotherapeutic treatment, as well as to assessment, will be a focus. Therapist or evaluator counter-transference response to projective material from traumatized patients will also be discussed.

The training is appropriate for clinicians using drawings (or other projective measures) in assessment or treatment of children and adolescents, as well as adults.
